LIFE as a dealer in rare sporting books is a constant voyage of discovery. Several years ago, I first viewed one of the remarkable collections of sporting sketches. It is our good fortune that the owner of the volume at that time, Sir Edward Scott, had the foresight to preserve these in a large leather bound album, thus surviving a century and more, rather than being discarded as a collection of useless old scribbles – the fate of so many sporting gems of the past. Having the opportunity to study these was a delight, and I resolved that another Crealock work should be produced. I managed to uncover a few more of this Victorian gentleman's sketches, which I have included. The late The Honourable Ronald Fife most kindly wrote the introduction for me, and also introduced me to this fascinating personal record in the first place. I hope that it will give great pleasure and generate fond memories of days on the hill and by the loch for many of our long sportsmen. It has remained in safe hands as a sporting volume, in the caring ownership of Mr. Ian Scott-Gall.

THIS COLLECTION CONTAINS – FOR THE FIRST TIME – SOME COLOURED PLATES BY GENERAL CREALOCK, AND ALSO A COLOURED CARICATURE OF THE AUTHOR BY "APY".

This new work is now nearing publication.
